Outcome indicator

Indicator Phrasing

English: number of communities which completed at least [specify the percentage] of their disaster preparedness plan's action points

French: nombre de communautés qui ont accompli au moins [précisez le %] des points d'actions de leurs plans de préparation aux catastrophes

Spanish: número de comunidades que han completado al menos [especifique el porcentaje] de los puntos de acción de su plan de preparación ante desastres

Portuguese: número de comunidades que completaram pelo menos [especificar a percentagem] dos pontos de acção do seu plano de preparação para desastres

Czech: počet komunit, které splnily alespoň [určete procento] akčních bodů svého plánu připravenosti na katastrofy

What is its purpose?

The indicator measures the number of the target communities who completed a minimum percentage of the action points set in their disaster preparedness plans.

How to Collect and Analyse the Required Data

Determine the indicator's value by using the following methodology:

- 1) Count the number of the action points that were agreed upon and documented in the disaster preparedness plan (as a result of the Vulnerability and Capacity Assessment). Include only those whose completion date was before the time of your survey.
- 2) Use interviews with relevant key informants, focus group discussions with the local community members, and review of documents to assess the number of action points that were completed.
- 3) Divide the number of completed action points by the number of action points assigned for the given time period. Multiply it by 100 to convert it to a percentage. The result is the percentage of completed action points.

4) Calculate the indicator's value by counting the number of communities who completed at least the minimum percentage of their disaster preparedness plan's action points.

Important Comments

1) Ensure that the action points include primarily those actions that (can) make a difference in the target communities (for example, avoid including action points such "send meeting minutes to the XY authorities").
